Form 990, Part III, Line 4a - First AccomplishmentEducation & Advocacy

Preservation Utah's advocacy and education programs are at the heart of our mission to protect and celebrate Utah's architectural and historical treasures. We work with elected officials, administrators, and property owners to promote preservation-oriented public policies, support relevant legislation, and develop creative, sustainable solutions. Our efforts go beyond protecting buildings—we strive to preserve the stories, culture, and history that define Utah. We educate the public about the state's historic built environment and cultural resources through lectures, tours, and cultural events. By actively engaging the community, we empower individuals and groups to take ownership of their local heritage, ensuring that preservation efforts resonate across generations. Our annual Preservation Conference is Utah's premier gathering for preservation professionals, technical experts, students, property owners, and the public. It provides a unique opportunity to network, learn, and collaborate on the future of historic preservation in our state.

Form 990, Part III, Line 4b - Second AccomplishmentHistoric Properties

Preservation Utah's Historic Properties Program safeguards Utah's built heritage through loans, easements, and hands-on rehabilitation efforts. Since 1970, our revolving loan fund has provided low-interest loans to historic property owners, ensuring that preservation projects meet national standards while revitalizing entire neighborhoods. Our easement program offers permanent protection for more than 127 historic properties across Utah, with annual inspections and personalized reports to help owners maintain their buildings. Through our rehabilitation program, we equip the public with practical preservation skills via expert-led workshops and hands-on training sessions, ensuring that historic preservation techniques are passed down to future generations. By combining financial support, legal protections, and education, we empower communities to preserve the places that define Utah's history.

Form 990, Part III, Line 4c - Third AccomplishmentOther Program

Preservation Utah offers a variety of programs throughout the year that celebrate and support historic preservation across the state. The Community Stewardship Awards recognize outstanding preservation efforts each year, honoring projects and individuals who have significantly contributed to protecting Utah's historic places. Award categories include rehabilitation and restoration, legacy businesses, adaptive reuse, industry experts, individuals or organizations, and lifetime achievement. Our semi-annual Historic Homes Tours spotlight Utah's historic neighborhoods, offering the public an inside look at preserved homes and their architectural significance. These tours educate participants on local history and design and inspire them, demonstrating successful preservation projects that others can replicate in their communities.
